MOST LLC Changes Name to iSALUS Healthcare™: New moniker - and new corporate headquarters – support company’s mission and growth

(Indianapolis, IN—January 3, 2007) – MOST, LLC is now iSALUS Healthcare™. The name change supports the company’s commitment to help physicians provide the services that their patients need to achieve optimal health.

“Salus” was the Roman goddess of health, who was entrusted with the well being of individuals and society. Including Salus in the new name represents the company’s commitment to helping physicians and healthcare organizations meet the needs of their patients. The “i” stands for the company’s ability to meet those needs via the Internet.

“We want people to easily recognize what we do: Provide the software and workflow support needed to support healthcare organizations and particularly clinicians in their mission and to cost effectively help their patients achieve optimal health,” says Mark Day, President and Chief Executive Officer. “Medicine is becoming more and more patient centric. Providers need to have the most up-to-date technology to help them provide consumers with what they want and need. These expectations will only increase as more patients/consumers have responsibility for more of their first dollar out of pocket. Physicians will face increased pressure from many sides, and we believe that our focus on the workflow of these relationships can bring real value to physicians.”

iSALUS Healthcare does just that by offering easy-to-use online tools that provide 360-degree support to healthcare providers, making it possible to provide quality healthcare, streamline office operations and increase profitability of the practice or clinic. Because the iSALUS healthcare software solution was developed specifically for use in an Internet environment, it offers a truly integrated online computing experience for physicians, nurses, and back office support staff across the continuum of care.

Because it is one product, there are none of the application integration risks or product development risks typically associated with patching legacy solutions together.

iSALUS Healthcare makes it easy for healthcare organizations to access OfficeEMR™, which provides the following:

- An innovative electronic medical records system that enables clinicians and staff members to access charts at the point of care or from anywhere else the physician may need access to this critical data. Patient data can safely be shared for referrals or emergency care support.
- A comprehensive and highly intuitive practice management system that handles patient registration, scheduling, encounter tracking and other business related functions.
- An electronic claims processing system that shortens the billing cycle, increases collections and improves productivity.

The name change is only part of the company's renewed focus on meeting the technology needs of healthcare providers—and, subsequently, the healthcare needs of patients. In addition, iSALUS healthcare is moving into its new corporate headquarters located in the Indiana BioCrossroads/Healthcare corridor of downtown Indianapolis.

With new offices in the Stutz building (212W.10th Street, Suite B120, Indianapolis, IN46202), iSALUS healthcare is now located in close proximity to the Indiana University School of Medicine as well as several major hospitals. Named for Henry Stutz, entrepreneur and founder of the Stutz Motor Car Company, the building once housed the factory that built the Bearcat, a car that raced in the first Indianapolis 500.

“Being in the Healthcare corridor places us in a location that is at the center of the industry’s innovation,” Day says. “The additional office space will support our predicted growth, as iSALUS Healthcare will more than double in size over the next year.”
